

Public Presentation – Terrace Campus

March 2nd, 2016 12:00 pm – 1:00 pm Room 103

This session will also be available via livestream: <http://www.livestream.com/unbcnorthwest>

“Interpretations and Applications in Ethnobiology”

Presented by:

Dr. Carla Burton, Adjunct Professor & Sessional Instructor, UNBC

Dr. Phil Burton, Professor & NW Regional Chair, UNBC

Carla and Phil will discuss some of their work with First Nations to document traditional harvesting and trade in wild plant and animal products.

Research reveals interesting geographic patterns and economic opportunities. Protection of these resources and practices requires translation into the jargon used by foresters and other land managers.

