

Lecturer/Assistant Professor

Posting #FANU01-21

School of Nursing Faculty of Human and Health Sciences One-Year, Term

The University of Northern British Columbia invites applications for a Term position in the School of Nursing at the rank of Lecturer or Assistant Professor, with proposed starting date of January 1, 2022. As an institution committed to the fostering of an inclusive and transformative learning environment, UNBC values high quality and growth in both teaching and scholarship.

The position offers a unique and exciting opportunity for a creative, energetic, and adventuresome Nurse to join the MScN FNP team. The Lecturer/Assistant Professor will be an integral part of a dynamic team involved in the development and implementation of an innovative, vibrant Nursing program at one of Canada's leading universities.

Primary responsibilities will include development and delivery of courses that comprise a full generalist (F)NP curriculum; scholarship to include community evaluation (active or developing) that builds on strong community and health service need; and varying degrees of program coordination (includes policy and leadership development). Applicants will be required to present evidence of evaluation or research, teaching and practice excellence demonstrating their areas of interest and expertise. Evidence of recent clinical experience is required. Practice experience in rural/remote, northern, and/or indigenous community settings and experience teaching using mixed modalities is a distinct asset. Strong organizational, initiative-taking, and teamwork skills as well as high-level communication skills are essential. BCCNM registration is required. As some travel to other campuses and northern communities maybe necessary, a valid BC driver's license is required.

Applicants for this position should be a registered Nurse Practitioner in BC, hold a Masters, with PhD or DNP preferred, and have a growing record of scholarly activity, as well as present evidence of and commitment to teaching excellence. Applicants with research exposure and a combination of teaching and clinical nursing practice experience who have demonstrated current clinical expertise are sought.

About the University and its Community

Located in the spectacular landscape of northern British Columbia, UNBC is one of Canada's best small research-intensive universities, with a core campus in Prince George and three regional campuses in Northern BC (Quesnel, Fort St. John and Terrace). We have a passion for teaching, discovery, people, the environment, and the North. Our region is comprised of friendly communities, offering a wide range of outdoor activities including exceptional skiing, canoeing and kayaking, fly fishing, hiking, and mountain biking. The lakes, forests and mountains of northern and central British Columbia offer an unparalleled natural environment in which to live and work.

UNBC provides outstanding undergraduate and graduate learning opportunities that explore cultures, health, economies, sciences, and the environment. As one of BC's leading research-intensive universities, we bring the excitement of new knowledge to our students, and the outcomes of our teaching and research to the world. In addition to fostering and celebrating academic excellence, UNBC is a welcoming place, with a learning environment that is friendly, inclusive, and supportive.

Small classes and a connected community exemplify UNBC and mean that our students and professors get to know one another. Outstanding academics, hands-on research, unlimited adventure and a tight-knit campus community result in strong student satisfaction at UNBC.

For the past 10 years, UNBC has placed in the top three in its category in the annual Maclean's University Rankings, the only university of its size to achieve that feat. UNBC also recently placed among the top 4 per cent of higher education institutions worldwide in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings.

For more information about living and working with the University of Northern British Columbia please refer to <http://www.unbc.ca/experience> and http://www.unbc.ca/provost/new_faculty.html . Make your mark with this leading post-secondary institution.

To Apply

Applicants should forward their cover letter indicating potential contributions to the Program, curriculum vitae, a brief statement of teaching approaches and research program, the names and addresses of three references (including telephone and email information), and the following form which can be found here: <https://www2.unbc.ca/sites/default/files/sections/human-resources/form-statementofeligibilitytoworkincanada-fillablepdf.pdf> quoting posting #FANU01-21 to:

Office of the Provost, University of Northern British Columbia
3333 University Way, Prince George, B.C., V2N 4Z9

Email submissions: FacultyRecruitment@unbc.ca
Inquiries: Dr. Caroline Sanders, Acting Chair of the School of Nursing nursingchair@unbc.ca
250-960-5000

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. The University of Northern British Columbia is committed to employment equity and encourages applications from women, aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities.

We thank all applicants for their interest in UNBC however, only those applicants selected for further consideration will be contacted.

Applications received on or before October 1, 2021, will receive full consideration; however, applications will be accepted until the position is filled.