EDUC 391 PRACTICUM - Thank you to our School District Partners and Teachers!

B.Ed Students have completed their first practicum. Our partnerships with local school districts have helped to make the practicum a great success. Cooperating Teachers are an important part of a Teacher Candidate's learning process, without their valued participation, our student's potential would not be realized.

Faculty, Staff and Students would like to specifically thank the principals and cooperating teachers at:

SD#82: Thornhill Primary School, Suwilaawks Community School, Cassie Hall Elementary School, Veritas Catholic School, Kildala Elementary School, Mount Elizabeth Middle School.

SD#54: Telkwa Elementary School

SD#92: Alvin A. Mckay Middle School

UNBC Terrace campus has new outside lighting!

Our 2014 Cohort was concerned that the parking lot at the campus was very dark at night. This was a concern since some of their classes were held in the evening. The class decided that better lighting was required for increased personal safety. Phil Burton, our Campus Chair, was approached about increasing the number of lights on the outside of the building. It just so happened that this request supported an earlier request from Deidre Quinlan our Terrace Campus Administrator. This past spring some Health & Safety personnel came up from Prince George and they agreed that more lighting was required. The lights were installed in February of this year. Thanks go to the 2014 Cohort for voicing their concerns and to everyone else who was involved!

<http://studentsatthecenterhub.org>

Even though this is a website initially connected to New England there is much information generally about student-centred learning. Launched in 2015, the Students at the Center Hub is a highly interactive, community-driven, web-based source of information, ideas, and materials for educators and advocates for student-centered learning in New England and beyond. It shares the latest research on effective, student-centered approaches that lead to deeper learning, and it showcases promising policies and practices from around the region
