Voices of the Night: the Owls of British Columbia

John Neville has had a lifelong interest in birds, which began in the Midlands of England. He began serious field recording of birds in 1993 after he studied with the MacAuley Library of Natural Sounds, Cornell University. John has since been a regular supplier of nature recordings to the Library of Natural Sounds. As Neville Recording, John has produced twelve regional sound guides to bird identification. He regularly presents at Birding Festivals such as the Brant Festival, Wings over the Rockies, and the Meadowlark Festival. He has published articles in journals for the Ontario Federation of Naturalists (Seasons), BC Field Ornithologists (BC Birds), Wildlife Sound Recording Society (Wildlife Sound), and BC Nature (BC Nature) of which he is the President. John's presentation will focus on night sounds of British Columbia owls.
